It would be difficult to think of a more exciting use of spark plugs than those provided by two world's endurance champions in the light aircraft industry. Absolutely dependable, quiet, and with superior strength and the all-around heavy performance of Champions, Champion Spark Plugs provided perfect performance in dry heat to practically every major racing and record-breaking event.

Tweedsmuir of Canada

IN MACLEAN'S, July 15, 1939, there was published an article headed "Tweedsmuir of Canada."

Discussing the man and his job the author, I Thomas Smith, suggested it was possible to move back the clock and imagine how John Buchan envisaged his call to the post of Governor-General of Canada. Mr. Smith did so in the following passage:

"All is not easy as we'll watch the Empire as we proceed. Two are becoming against varying pressure — economic, geographic, political and social. 'Modeling through' is no longer good enough. I must compete with appearing kings, not in the domain of a distant king in the language of democracy. The big thing is to keep the Empire together and retain the close kinship of the United States. A Governor-General should be preferably suited to work for such a purpose."

"Each Governor-General must approach his job according to his training. I am not a graduate of public blood and estate. I'll be foolish as pretend to the traditions of my predecessors. But I am a man of wide experience as a member of battle, and I must use this experience. I must meet all kinds of Canadians must learn all values of thought, understand conflicting points of view."

"It isn't enough that I explain the English to the Canadians and the Canadians to the English. I must explain the Canadians to themselves. Canada is large, and must realize as many sides and stands as a dozen of our little Continental countries. There must be great differences in the people, dangerous differences which must be based by mutual understanding and knowledge."

"There's my job to work for Canadian unity, to help establish a national consciousness. I will have losses and failures held by no other man. I will be first of the crying survivors that maintain and handle the efforts of even the most sincere politicians."

"I must travel everywhere, on the back roads and city streets, and as simply as my position permits. And my traveling will be a suffering labor, because when I go will be in the news. My men will read of the Peace River when I am on it, will realize more acutely that the Peace River is there. My men will learn about Cape Breton if I go there, Ontario fruit growers will be reminded of the wheat harvest when I am in Saskatchewan. The value of this simple type of education through familiarity is known to any who know of the public mind. My written experience as Director of Information should help me to do this job well."

"The most travel otherwise than geographically. I must visit borders of race and creed. I must respect and encourage others to respect the traditions and glories of French Canada. I must welcome in thought and gesture the new citizens of Canada who have come from Middle Europe. I must help to build down every barrier that divides Canada."

"My thoughtful sponsor I can accomplish something, for the power of speech is as great now as in the day of Mark Antony. I must use my own speech, even the commonplace ones, and I must avoid controversial subjects. I should speak to universities and schools and maintain an interest. I have always had in the system of education. To Canadian youth as to the other generation, my theme, however indirect, must always be to establish Canada's national unity."

We repeat this statement because, actually, it set forth what the writer had gathered in several conversations with Lord Tweedsmuir. This is how His Excellency really did envision his task.

The story of how he succeeded in fulfilling his purpose is to be found in the history paid to him by Canadians in all walks of life in every part of the Dominion, in the depth of this nation's grief at his passing.

In letters written to his friends some time before his death, Lord Tweedsmuir told how deeply his roots were in Canada. And in Canada the memory of him will be kept green and held fast for many years to come.

Vote

IF YOU are qualified to vote in the general election on March 18, make sure that you are on the list — and VOTE.

At the last election, in 1935, 1,500,000 qualified Canadians refused to record their vote. So states W. D. McLeod, a Winnipeg politician who makes frequent surveys. He makes these statements here:

"The army of non-voters outnumbered the total vote of all parties other than the old two parties. The Conservative Party received four votes than the number of non-voters and the Liberal Party was returned in power with a margin of only 400,000 over the voteless 'left-handed'."

There were fifty-one members of the Dominion Parliament who received fractional support; that the number of non-voters in their respective ridings. This unrepresented vote here were not all backbenchers. No less than four cabinet members were among them."

Political apathy was not confined to the single districts. In fact the most striking example of mass apathy was to be found in the city of Toronto. Out of eleven members representing Toronto ridings eight of them represented fewer votes than the non-voters in their respective ridings."

"The failure of people to record their vote was more serious among the Canadians of general mass than in any other nation. In 1935, 1,500,000 and a half million demonstrated or disguised their vote out of five million voting strength in a considerable proportion."

"Nothing short of a national awakening will prevent democracy and vote the choice anyone who, if it persists, will allow corrupt, vicious, based on misrepresentation to exploit even the forces of democracy in Canada."

Your name on the franchise is your part in the maintenance of democracy. For power is a democracy, that runs upon the consent and active cooperation of the whole body of the people.

The Forum is a wooden building, with a roof structure that costs $1.5 million, says a source. And that's not the only thing worth paying for. While perhaps not so self-evident as some of the trophies and gardens in Canada, it is a luxury to produce a critical eye just for the sake. The limited seating capacity doesn't begin to look like the money-making solution to the plot of games, but, as officials say, it's not about the building, it's about the money.

At the start of the 1991-92 season the league consisted of 14 clubs: Derby, Glossy Bay, Inverness and Nornalshay, each with different terms, and each club was permitted to import two players to improve the level of hockey. Although a number of players stayed in Nornalshay, it was difficult to arrange as it was, much due to the local geographical area.

In Peace and in War King has Failed to Justify the Confidence of the Canadian People

A NATION AT WAR NEEDS A NATIONAL GOVERNMENT

KING failed to save Parliament. What he wants is a snap decision from the people, and he scuttled Parliament to get it.

King refused the request of the British Government two years ago to embark upon an Empire air training plan in Canada. As a result of the refusal the opportunity of establishing a great airplane industry here was delayed. Instead, United States industry has been aided with orders of thousands of planes from Britain and France.

Parliament has at late peace voted hundreds of millions of dollars for defense and although King claims that his government was preparing for war, there is today insufficient clothing and boots for the troops, no machine guns, no large guns, no anti-aircraft guns, no equipment and no plans for getting any.

King waited four months before clearing up allowances for soldiers' wives. There are still thousands of soldiers' mothers in need, who are getting nothing in the way of allowances.

Changes were made of unbridled lawlessness by the Government in awarding contracts.

Parliament was scuttled to an explanation. At great expense to the taxpayers Parliament was assembled—then in three hours, dissolved. Why?

King failed to save Parliament. What he wants is a snap decision from the people, and he scuttled Parliament to get it.

King stresses the need for national unity but he doesn't want national government. Dr. Manion stands for a true national Government—the best way for the job regardless of party. Only through National Government can the nation achieve unity.

At the outbreak of the war Dr. Manion, leader of the Conservative party, pledged his services to Canada's war effort. He was completely ignored.

What has the King government done for Canadians in peace time? For four years we had a million people on relief and half a million unemployed. Boys were drafted to bring in peoples and to riding across Canada on freight trains looking for jobs they couldn't find. King has no solution for unemployment.

A nation at war needs a National Government

There's nothing like Lobster for Flavour

MANY marvellously tempting dishes can be whipped up in a hurry with a can of Canadian Lobster. For a snack or a lunch; for a piquant new sauce; for salads or sandwiches, Lobster gives you the very tang of the sea, an appetizing taste that is distinctly "more-ish"! Connoisseurs in overseas markets have been taking the cream of Canadian Lobster. The difficulties of war now make this appetizing food available to you. Your purchases of Canadian Lobster will extend patriotic help to a great Canadian industry, and improve Canada's economic position.

Serve lobster at least once a week. But be sure it is Canadian Canned Lobster.

DEPARTMENT OF FISHERIES, OTTAWA.

Hon. J. E. Michaud, Minister

CREAMED LOBSTER IN RICE RING

1 to 1½ cupfuls rice, 1 tablespoonful salt, boiling water, ½ cupful chopped parsley, 3 tablespoonfuls butter, 3 tablespoonfuls flour, 1½ cupfuls liquid (liquor from the lobster, plus milk), 1 teaspoonful salt, ½ teaspoonful paprika, 1 large can lobster, 1 tablespoonful lemon juice.

Wash rice thoroughly and add gradually to boiling salted water. Boil gently until rice is tender, drain and rinse with hot water. Place over hot water or in oven to dry out, combine with chopped parsley and pack into a ring mold which has been lightly greased. Keep hot while making the lobster mixture. Melt butter, blend in flour and gradually add the liquid. Cook, stirring constantly until thick and smooth.

Add seasonings and the lobster which has been broken into pieces and sprinkled with lemon juice. Heat thoroughly. For serving, turn rice ring out onto a hot serving plate and fill centre with the creamed mixture. Garnish with some of the lobster claws. Serves 6 to 8.
